COMMUNITY CARE LICENSING (CCL)

Three distinct functions

1. Prevention

3. Enforcement
Prevention

To reduce predictable harm by screening out unqualified applicants through the application process.
Compliance

Once the license is issued, CCL has the authority to inspect the Foster Family Home. This is to ensure that the home is operating in compliance with regulations. If the home is out of compliance, deficiencies are cited on a Licensing Report. The report will have a time frame for the correction of the deficiencies cited.
Enforcement

When the Foster Family Home (FFH) fails to protect the health and safety of the children, or if chronic serious deficiencies exist, then various administrative actions may occur. These may include:

- Informal office meetings
- Non-compliance conferences
- Denial of application
- Temporary Suspension Order (TSO)
- Revocation of license

CCL Criminal Record Clearance

All adults (18 and up) living in the Foster Family Home must have a Criminal Record Clearance.

A civil penalty can be given to any licensed caregiver who fails to have any adult living in the home fingerprinted.

A deficiency is cited for each individual with an immediate assessment of $100 per violation. There is no daily maximum.
If you are a licensed foster parent from another county and that county is the licensing agency, your criminal record clearances may be transferable.

If this is applies to you, please inform the licensing agency when you submit your application.
Effective January 1, 2006, a caregiver has the authority to arrange for occasional short-term babysitting of their foster children without requiring the babysitter to undergo a criminal record background check (fingerprinting), TB test and CPR/First Aid training. Caregivers are required to use a reasonable and prudent parent standard when determining and selecting appropriate babysitters for occasional short-term use.

Short-term meaning no more than 24 consecutive hours.

When making this decision the foster parent should take into consideration the emotional, behavioral, medical and physical condition of the foster child/children.
The caregiver should provide the babysitter with all pertinent information regarding the children and their care.

When evaluating a caregiver’s compliance with these requirements, CCL staff will evaluate whether or not the caregiver provided all necessary information to the babysitter to care for the foster children. Staff will also determine if the caregiver made a careful and sensible parental decision when choosing a babysitter.

When in doubt, we encourage the caregiver to discuss & “document” their concerns with the child’s social worker.
